SMOOT'S FIRST VOTE.

SENATOR SMOOT'S FIRST VOTE in his new position was for the Cuban reciprocity treaty, which provides, among other things, for a heavy reduction on sugar imported from that island. Just what service this is to the growers of sugar beets would be hard to explain; but the ultimate injury to the beet business is certain.

The treaty remains to be acted upon by the house of representatives before it is effective, and it is quite possible the members of that body will say more than the wishes of their constituents than have those senators from the beet sugar states who have been whipped into line by the administration.

It has been pleaded that the measure was an act of justice due to Cuba, but the fact that the sugar trust controls the Cuban crop, and that it has been strongly in favor of the treaty, robs it of its benevolent aspect and gives it a strong flavor of political reciprocity for campaign purposes.

If the Utah best growers like Senator Smoot's attitude on this question they are either woefully blind to their own interests or else they are willing to sacrifice a great industry to the desire to "get in line" with the administration.

THE JUDGES' SALARY GRAB.

WRITING FROM THE SOUTHERN part of the state, an esteemed correspondent of The Herald, after endorsing the stand taken by this paper with reference to the judicial salary grab, suggests that one judge will be eligible to try any proceedings that may be instituted to prevent the payment of the increased salaries. This judge will be appointed by Governor Wells for the Third district court.

The suggestion is a good one. Beyond any question this judge, who is as yet unnamed, will be entitled to the salary fixed for him by the last legislature. This is true because at the time the salary was fixed he had not entered upon his duties, nor had he been selected. There is, however, an ethical side to the question. Legally the new judge will be competent, but he will have to be a man of exceedingly strong character if he can pass upon the matter without prejudice.

It would seem almost ludicrous for him to deny to his colleagues on the bench the same amount of salary that he himself draws. At the same time, under the constitution, he could do nothing else for the constitutional provision on the subject is so plain that any child should be able to understand it. While the new judge would have no financial interest in the case, he would undoubtedly have such an interest as would detract considerably from any decision he might make.

The nut promises to be a hard one to crack. There is one possible solution, however. That solution lies through the United States court. It has been suggested that a non-resident taxpayer would have the right to ask the United States court for a writ of quo warranto against State Auditor Finney to prevent him, or to make him show by what authority he issues warrants to the judges for the increased salaries.

Judge John Marshall, a jurist in whom every lawyer and every citizen over the United States court. He cannot possibly be charged with any prejudice whatever in the matter. If Judge Marshall says it is constitutional to raise the pay of the judges during the term for which they were elected or appointed, the question will be forever settled in the minds of a large majority of the people of Utah.

The Herald hopes a thorough investigation will develop the feasibility of this solution. On its face it is the best method that could possibly be devised.

AS TO NEWSPAPER READING.

A RATHER ASTONISHING confession was made by one of the tallest men under examination as to his competency for service as a juror in the Kennedy murder case now on trial in the Third district court. In answer to a question, he said he did not subscribe for any newspaper, and that he very rarely read one. To the average observer it would seem that such a man would make an ideal juror, but he was promptly excused.

And he should have been excused. There may have been, a long time ago, some excuse for not reading newspapers, but no legitimate excuse exists today. Men argue that they are too poor to subscribe for a newspaper. That is absurd. The average man fritters away in a month several times the amount a newspaper subscription would cost him. And even if he were economical to an extravagant degree he could still find some other little "economy" which would enable him to read a newspaper.

The Herald is well aware of the fact that it may be charged with self-interest in this matter. Of course, we would very much rather everybody subscribed for The Herald. The truth is, nearly everybody does, for the good and sufficient reason that it is the best newspaper published in this part of the country. However, that is by the way. The point we started out to make, and the point we insist on making, is that everybody should read some newspaper, a daily newspaper, if possible. It is entirely reasonable to say that the man who doesn't read a newspaper can hardly be a good citizen. He can be a good man, of course. That is, he can pay his debts, he can love his neighbor as himself, he can refrain from committing any crimes. But he cannot be a good citizen in the best sense of that expression. Why? Because the good citizen is the well-informed citizen. He is the man who knows what is going on in the world.

How is a man to think for himself if he fails to acquire food for thought direct from the fountain head? What a narrow, petty, humdrum life this would be without the newspapers to tell us of the events that are written into the pages of the history we are making every day. The daily newspaper has its faults, but they are few, compared with the possibilities for faults. Certainly the modern, up-to-date, clean newspaper has fewer real faults than those who refuse to read them.

After all, though, so few people do not read the newspapers that they are hardly worth considering except by the confidence men who reap their harvests from them. Your average bunco-steerer, no matter what his individual line may be, would give a good deal for a list of the people in Utah who never, or rarely, look at a newspaper.

VICE PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER.

HAVING BECOME SATISFIED, in their own minds, that President Roosevelt is to be nominated to succeed himself next year, the politicians in the Roosevelt circle have begun casting about for a running mate. They say he must be an orator, and that he must come from the west. Unfortunately, those politicians seem to be laboring under the impression that the western boundary of the nation lies somewhere about the western boundary line of Iowa.

They talk of Beveridge of Indiana and of Shaw of Iowa, of John Maynard Harlan of Illinois. Others have been suggested, but they come from sections which are no longer in the west, as we understand the west out here. Now The Herald has to desire to dictate the Republican vice presidential nomination but it feels that some very worthy men are being sadly slighted by the Roosevelt leaders. Here in Utah we have some available timber which is ready for the political sawmill.

Naturally the name of Senator Thomas Kearns would be first to suggest itself in this connection. Senator Kearns is an orator who thrills his audiences wherever and whenever he speaks. He has a constitution that would enable him to stand all the fatigue incident to a protracted campaign with a dozen rear platform speeches every day. Unfortunately, however, Senator Kearns is not eligible to the vice presidency unless we can hurry through a constitutional amendment for his benefit. He was born in Canada.

However, the elimination of Senator Kearns doesn't exhaust the Utah crop. We point with pride to Mayor Ezra Thompson. When it comes to making a stump speech, Hixson has got all the rest of the entries 'way back behind the distance flag. He just spreads his field from the word go and, though he may cast a shoe or lose a hobble occasionally, he's a sure winner. Mayor Thompson, it is proud to say, a Utah product. He possesses all the necessary qualifications and then a few.

Should it be decided, though, that the mayor is not available—that is, should he decline to enter the race—there are others. What's the matter with Governor Wells? We felt sure the politicians will answer, with one accord, "He's all right." Governor Wells has been known to make speeches nearly five minutes long without blinking at his manuscript more than eight times a minute. What more do the politicians desire?

We feel that we have pointed out a way through the difficulty that now besets the leaders of and for President Roosevelt. If the suggestions are not adopted, or one of them, at least, we shall feel very much hurt.

A New York syndicate of money-lenders has very generously agreed to go to the rescue of Venezuela—provided the United States will guarantee the payment of the loan, with interest. This large-hearted philanthropy should make every one of us think more kindly of the money sharks.

One of Funston's old captains repeats the charge that Funston cannot swim. We suggest, if Funston wants to even things up with his accusers, that he invite them to the Great Salt Lake to witness a demonstration of his aquatic ability.

John D. Rockefeller has announced that for every dollar given to a North Carolina Baptist university he will give another dollar. That means that we'll just have to stop using coal oil entirely.

An Indiana woman was shot the other day while sitting at an organ. It will be impossible to say whether or not the homicide was justifiable until we know what she was playing and how often she had played it.

Surely "Fussy James" isn't walking back. Still, the fact that he hasn't broken into the dispatches lately makes the awful surmise possible.

The colored Crum again failed to be confirmed by the senate. Now it is up to the president to make half a loaf for him somewhere else.

SOCIETY.

Mr. and Mrs. Serebo B. Tuttle entertained at dinner Thursday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Broughall, old-time Michigan friends, now living here. Covers were laid for twelve. Pink was the prevailing color and the table was lighted with candelabra and decorated with hyacinths, aquamarine fern and violets scattered over the cloth. Music and ping-pong rounded out a very pleasant evening.

A merry crowd of young people enjoyed the dancing party given at Christensen's hall last evening by the university students. The chaperons for the affair were Mrs. Kilgusbury, Mrs. Little, Mrs. Riter and Mrs. Ferguson. The music was all that could be desired, and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed.

The P. E. O. society will continue their rummage sale at 207 South State street throughout today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans of Coalville, who have spent the past few days in the city visiting, return today to their home.

There will be a meeting of the State Kindergarten association Monday at the office of the Woman's Exponent.

The Billie club will give a dance next Friday evening at Christensen's hall.

Mrs. Thomas H. Jenkins on Thursday entertained a number of her friends at a party. Light refreshments were served at the conclusion of cards. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames J. H. Preece, J. U. Eldredge, Jr., and Albert Williams, Miss McClain and Mr. McClain.

Mrs. D. S. Spencer is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Thatcher, in Logan.

SHE MADE A CHANGE.

A Charleston Mother Did So With Advantage to Herself and Children.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children, writes:

"Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough remedies, croup mixtures and throat medicines for my children, for somehow or other they never seem to be free from colds, coughs or sore throat."

"This fall I made a change in the usual programme. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be used for catarrh, coughs and colds."

"So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did."

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of chronic nasal and throat catarrh, but they have saved me many an anxious night with my little ones. The children like the taste of them and it is really wonderful how quickly they will break up a croupy cold or an obstinate, deep-seated cough. People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves or washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be greatly surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant, convenient, effective remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere admit that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, which sell for 50 cents a full sized package, is the safest, most effective and popular of catarrh medicines."
